NEW Course at Parker Campus!

PSY 207 Intro to Forensic Psychology (3)

Are you interested in Psychology and Criminal Justice? This course explores both current research and practice in five areas. These areas are police psychology, criminal psychology, victimology, correctional psychology and the interface of psychology and the courts. The course facilitates an understanding of the numerous careers related to forensic psychology, how to prepare for them and current research and practice in each of the five broad areas of forensic psychology.

This course is offered every other year as an elective for Psychology and Criminal Justice students!
